SANITY COMMISSION FOR YOUTHS IS LAST HOPE IF SENTENCE IS DEATH

DARROW HINTS INSANITY MAY BE FINAL PLEA

One of Last Hopes Open to Defense End of Pleas Expected Thursday

Chicago, Aug. 26.—The defense fired its final gun today in the trial to fix the punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb for the murder of Robert Frank.

An abrupt change in the plans of the defense lawyers today brought the end of the epochal proceedings in sight. With fourteen hours of steady pleading for mercy already in, the defense decided to cut short its final argument and when Benjamin Bachrach took the floor at the opening of the session today, it was in expectation that he would conclude before noon, clearing the way for the state to close with the demand for the death penalty. This probably will bring an end to the trial tomorrow.

Clarence Darrow's masterful plea for mercy characterized by other lawyers and jurists as one of the greatest ever heard in any criminal trial, was directly responsible for the defense change of plans today. It had been expected that Bachrach would speak all of today and part of tomorrow.

Clarence Darrow's masterful plea for mercy characterized by other lawyers and jurists as one of the greatest ever heard in any criminal trial, was directly responsible for the defense change of plans today. It had been expected that Bachrach would speak all of today and part of tomorrow.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—A sanity commission within ninety days, if Judge John R. Caverly sentenced Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb to the scaffold for the murder of little Bobby Frank—this was the word being whispered around among the lawyers today as the defense fired its final gun in the five weeks medico-legal battle to save the necks of the boys who slew for a thrill.

Clarence Darrow, the brilliant pleader for judicial mercy, left no doubt in his closing address that the defense is not going to rest upon Judge Caverly's decision—if that decision be harsh.

"Mad boys," he called the 19 year old youths. "The mad act of two mad boys," was his favorite phrase. It recurred again and again throughout the days of his masterful pleading, a sane thing connected with "insanity" was another of his oft repeated phrases. He pictured the boys as along the border line of plain insanity, the kind that the law recognizes. And if they are not even now actually across that border, he contended, it would take but a slight push to put them over. This push will be supplied if Caverly rules the rope instead of prison.

Appeal to the supreme court for the appointment of a sanity commission is one of the few alternatives open to Darrow and the Bachrach brothers who are associated with him in the defense, should the decision go against them in this trial. And in the opinion of legal authorities, it is the defense's one "best bet."

Darrow's perfect record of "no hangings" is responsible to a large extent for the brief betting in Chicago that "Dicky" Loeb and "Babe" Leopold will never hang for the "crime of the century."

Benjamin Bachrach was expected to close the defense's case today, clearing the way for State's Attorney Crowe to conclude the State's case tomorrow or early Thursday with his demand for the death penalty.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Concluding his three-day plea for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, Chief Counsel Clarence Darrow declared that to hang the boys "would turn back the clock of barbarism."

Darrow pleaded with Chief Justice Caverly to save the state of Illinois from the "shame" of hanging the slayers of Robert Frank, the "boy who was too good to die." "If you honor can hang a boy at 18, in violation of the policy of the law, in violation of the spirit of humanity, then some day another boy may hang one at 12 or 15, or even 14," Darrow said. Mercy, humanity and considerations of the effect of such hangings on the community were cited by the pleader as outweighing the cold letter of the law and making for prevention rather than the propagation of crime.

Darrow said the defendants were "two children, wandering around in a nightmare world, the sport of blind force." He declared they are just two imperfect machines, lacking the emotions to balance their superior intellects, committing various crimes, with the murder of Bobby Frank as the climax, because nature failed to build perfectly. "No one can conclude, after a study of this case, on the act itself, except that diseased intellect is responsible for this terrible act," Darrow claimed.

LOCATELLI GIVES THRILLING TALE OF HIS ADVENTURE IN MID-OCEAN

Italian On Board Richmond Hoped to Accompany Americans—Smith and Nelson Scheduled to leave Ivigut

Washington, Aug. 26.—The hop of the American round the world flyers from Greenland to Indian Harbor Labrador will be delayed until Thursday, August 28, according to a dispatch today from Lieutenant Lowell Smith to the chief of the Air Service.

Smith said that the work of putting the planes in first class condition for the flight to the American continent was proceeding rapidly. There was no explanation of the decision to hold up the flight for another day.

On Board U. S. Cruiser Richmond, Aug. 26.—(By Wireless)—The Richmond was scheduled today to arrive at Indian Harbor, Labrador, with Lieut. Locatelli, rescued Italian air ace on board.

Locatelli and his three companions have recovered from having drifted four days in their seaplane in the bleak ocean wastes of the North Atlantic.

The finding of Locatelli has now switched all interest back to the performances of Lieutenant Lowell Smith and Lieutenant Erik Nelson, the two remaining United States army round the world flyers of the original four that set out from Los Angeles in March. Smith and Nelson were scheduled to hop off from Ivigut for Indian Harbor, Labrador, a distance of 570 miles, today, if weather conditions permit.

Lieut. Locatelli is particularly interested in the last leg of the Trans-Atlantic flight. He had hoped to have been able to accompany the Americans to Labrador.

Locatelli gave Admiral Magruder and other American naval officers on board the Richmond a thrilling account of his disappearance and adventure at sea.

Motor trouble forced his plane down between 2 and 3 o'clock Thursday

OHIO CORN CROP CUT IN HALF THIS YEAR

Washington, Aug. 26.—The department of agriculture announced that the premature tasseling of corn on dry ground will cut down the Ohio corn crop fully half the prospective yield. The statement said the reduction would be unchanged by the frost date. Half the acreage in the northern part of the state will be injured by early frost, it is forecast. Regarding prospects for other crops in Ohio, the department reports as follows:

Oats—Ohio reports the harvest of oats finished with every indication of a good crop.

Hay—A heavy tonnage of hay is being cut in Ohio. Pastures are becoming short.

afternoon. It had been travelling at terrific speed, the mechanics saying this was necessary because of the heavy load it bore—four human beings as well as petrol, water and food.

The machine struck the wind-tossed waves with a severe bump.

The sea was choppy under an Arctic wind. The mechanics were unable to make the necessary repairs. Darkness settled down with the plane drifting eastward. The men became so seasick, they could not eat anything. This helped conserve the food supply.

All the rescued, Locatelli, Giovanni Bazzini, Lieut. Grosio and Bruno Fracimelli were gaunt, disheveled and unshaven when they were picked up. They have been floating more than 82 hours and suffered severely from the cold.

There was a dramatic scene Sunday night when the rescue was made. Signalman Willis Pinkstone, on the Richmond, saw the distant gleam of a rocket while the cruiser was steaming 125 miles due east of Cape Farewell. It was estimated that the vessel from which the rocket was fired was ten miles distant.

Rear Admiral Magruder turned the Richmond in the direction of the flare and a strong searchlight was kept playing over the water. Meantime, the cruiser replied to the signal and soon the wrecked plane was sighted. The Richmond lay by until the plane could drift alongside. Locatelli said that was the first rocket he had fired since his plane was disabled. He did not know that any ship was near, but sent up the signal on a long chance. In fact, he said, he had not seen any human life since Thursday.

The Italian airplane was so badly buffeted by high seas that Locatelli realized it would be useless to try and salvage it.

As he stood on the deck of the Richmond, he looked at the disabled plane bobbing in the water alongside for a moment, and then, with an eloquent gesture, said: "She is done."

Locatelli stoody by the fan tail and watched the seaplane in the searchlight glare that turned the darkness to noon day brightness.

Sailors had almost torn the plane apart getting souvenirs.

"Luck was certainly against us," said Locatelli. "Fifteen minutes after we were forced down, fog came on. Then the weather cleared and Smith and Nelson went by. I didn't imagine there was a ship anywhere near us Sunday night when I signalled with the flare pistol. Even when Crozio handed it to me I remarked that I didn't think it would do any good."

Pinkstone, the signalman who noticed the signal, was called before the Richmond's crew and complimented on his vigilance. It was thought at first the signal came from a ship in distress and it was not until the searchlight revealed the plane that it was known Locatelli had been found. As the Richmond approached, Locatelli could be seen in the bow of his craft cackling and shouting replies to Mareschalt, Locatelli's representative on board.

PRINCE NOT MIXING WITH PASSENGERS ON OCEAN VOYAGE

Aboard Liner Berengaria, Aug. 26.—The Prince of Wales took a vigorous constitutional upon the private promenade deck adjoining the imperial suite yesterday and appeared to be enjoying himself immensely.

The prince, instead of mingling with the other passengers, has been keeping close to his suite. He dines with a few men friends in a secluded corner of the balcony dining hall, or strolls with General Trotter, a traveling companion.

So far the prince has not done any dancing, although the hundreds of young American friends on board eagerly watched for him.

The Prince expects to arrive at New York Friday and go to Washington the following day to have lunch with President Coolidge.

Want Warless World.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The commission on international justice and good will of the Federal Council of Churches called upon all churches and congregations in the United States to launch on Armistice day, Nov. 11, a "conservative drive toward a warless world." The churches are urged in the call to plan next month "definitely and unitedly" for the holding of great mass meetings on Armistice day as a rallying "point for the drive to accomplish the stupendous task of overthrowing the war system of the world and to outlaw and banish war."

WILSON & CO. WILL CONTEST RECEIVERSHIP

Conference Held on New Jersey Suit Bank Creditors Will Aid in Fight

New York, Aug. 26.—A conference between officials and lawyers representing Wilson & Company, the Chicago packing concern, which was thrown into a temporary receivership in New Jersey by the action of a small stockholder and bankers big stockholders and others interested in the company's fortunes was being held today.

It became known definitely today that the fifteen banks which are creditors of the corporation to the extent of approximately $35,000,000 would join the company in the legal battle to be fought in Trenton, N. J., on Sept. 2, when they must show cause why a permanent receiver should not be appointed and the company declared insolvent.

Thomas E. Wilson, president of the company is expected to issue a statement on the corporations affairs today through the law firm of Cravath, Henderson & Degerdorff, who will head their array of legal talent in the big fight expected.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Wilson & Company, meat packers, will contest the suit filed in New Jersey for the appointment of a receiver, Thomas K. Wilson, president of the firm, declared. Wilson telephoned his office from New York city, dictating a brief statement to his secretary.

State Banking Commissioner Edward Moxon of New Jersey was appointed receiver for Wilson & Company by Vice Chancellor Backes in Trenton. Application for the receivership was made by Morris J. Klein of Newark. In his petition Klein said the company owes $30,000,000 to various banking institutions and has an outstanding debt of $47,177,000. Vice Chancellor Backes set Sept. 2 as a time for the defendant company to show cause why a permanent receiver should not be appointed.

Wilson & Company has large packing houses in many parts of the world, with headquarters in Chicago. Its capital stock is listed on the New York and other exchanges. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, last, showed assets of $121,000,000, with these liabilities: $10,000,000,000 in preferred stock, $20,000,000 in common stock, $22,500,000 in first mortgage 6 per cent bonds, and $24,000,000 convertible bonds, of which $9,000,000 are 6 1/2 per cent and $15,000,000 7 1/2 per cent.

A refinancing plan for Wilson & Company was announced last February. It was asserted the company had been doing a large and satisfactory business, but its indebtedness had become too heavy. The plan contemplated issuance of prior preferred stock, but aroused opposition from certain preferred stockholders and the plan was deferred. Then came formation of a bankers' committee headed by Mr. Wetmore.

WORST STORM IN YEARS LEAVES DESTRUCTION ALONG SEABOARD PATH

Ships Seek Harbors to Avoid 75 Mile An Hour Gale—Some Driven to Sea—Woman Killed When Auto Turns Over in Wind

Washington, Aug. 26.—Sweeping northeastward in a path 300 miles wide, one of the most violent hurricanes within memory struck the Virginia and North Carolina coasts early today and then moved through Chesapeake Bay toward Maryland and New Jersey.

Scores of ships were driven into Atlantic harbors as the fifty-mile an hour wind struck the coast, tearing down telegraph and telephone lines and causing widespread property damage.

At an early hour today no loss of life had been reported to the Navy Department or the United States coast guard, although impaired communication facilities have made it impossible to check up all the towns along the unprotected coast.

Reports received here said that four ships in the vicinity of the Bahamas, rode out the storm throughout the night, instead of trying to reach the American coast. These were the Creole, the Hugh Lutz, the El Occidente and the Standard Oil tanker William Rockefeller. Their reports to coast radio stations told of "frenzied waves" and said the speed of the wind was at least 50 miles an hour.

The weather bureau issued storm warnings for the New England coast. Officials pointed out that the storm was one of the worst in years.

The first warning of the hurricane was issued by the weather bureau on Saturday when the storm centered off the Florida coast and gave indications of sweeping northward.

There was only one casualty in Washington. Mrs. Helen Mary Milton, of Evansville, Ind., was fatally injured when the automobile in which she was riding turned over in a severe rainstorm near Cumberland, Md.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 26.—Heeding the warning issued by the weather bureau, shipping in the Hampton Roads district suffered little in the tropical hurricane that has raged along the Virginia and Carolina coasts for twelve hours and passed out to sea early today. A wind velocity of 75 miles an hour was attained at Cape Hatteras and Ocracoke Island, near Beaufort, N. C., with a population of 600, was entirely under water at the height of the storm.

A rainfall accompanied the storm, almost four inches having fallen in this city.

Only one vessel has put to sea since the storm broke yesterday others remaining at Linn Roads, just inside Cape Henry, until the storm abates. A coal laden ship, bound for Boston, put back after a battle with the waves off the Cape.

Minor damage is reported from nearby beaches. Driven by the heavy wind the high tide that was expected to flood Norfolk's streets this morning, failed to materialize.

Much damage to fruit and farm crops is reported from Princess Anne and Norfolk counties. Grapevines, fruit trees and growing corn are strewn on the ground.

New York, Aug. 26.—A storm of near hurricane proportions moving up the seaboard from the West Indies in a three-hundred-mile path, threw itself against New York today in a way that crippled traffic, caused heavy damage and brought injury to forty persons when he retired after executing Mrs. Edith Thompson. He vowed then he never again would hang a woman. Thereafter his nerves "went to pieces." Among the many Ellis had hanged was Sir Roger Casement, Irish gun runner.

HANGMAN ATTEMPTS TO KILL HIMSELF

Rochdale, England, Aug. 26.—John Ellis, England's famous executioner, who suffered a nervous breakdown after he quit hanging people last March, was found shot in the neck yesterday with a revolver beside him.

His wife heard the shot and found him wounded soon after he arose from bed before dawn when he could not sleep, and went down stairs. The wound was said by doctors not to be fatal.

Ellis had hanged more than 200 persons when he retired after executing Mrs. Edith Thompson. He vowed then he never again would hang a woman. Thereafter his nerves "went to pieces." Among the many Ellis had hanged was Sir Roger Casement, Irish gun runner.

Dawes With Coolidge.

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 26.—General Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice presidential nominee, arrived at Colonel John Coolidge's home for a conference with President Coolidge. After lunch Dawes and Mr. Coolidge sat in the parlor, close to the stove, discussing the political situation with reference to the Ku Klux Klan, which has now become a paramount campaign issue.

Boy Hit by Machine.

Toledo, Aug. 26.—Ernest Walker, 9, was injured, probably fatally, when he was hit by an automobile. Otto Tshak, driver of the car, is being held pending the outcome of the boy's injuries.

DEMOCRATS TO FACE FIGHT ON KLAN QUESTION

Defeat of Durbin Is Anti-Klan Victory

May Insert Davis Words in Platform

Memorial Hall, Columbus, Aug. 26.—The Ku Klux Klan was named in the platform proposed to the Democratic state convention today by the committee on resolutions.

The language of John W. Davis, in which he assailed the Klan at Seagirt, N. J., recently was incorporated in the proposed Klan plank.

"We ratify and adopt the full platform of the Democratic National convention in New York as expressive of Democratic national principles. We especially endorse its declarations on the subjects of political, religious and civil liberty. The Democratic party in state and nation has always upheld these basic guarantees of freedom as embodied in the bill of rights and federal constitution.

"Whenever any organization, no matter what it chooses to call itself, whether Ku Klux Klan or any other name, raises the standard of racial or religious belief as a test for fitness for public office, it does violence to the spirit of American institutions and must be condemned by all who believe in American ideals."

The delegates stood and applauded for five minutes after the reading of Klan plan.

Judge W. H. Spence was ruled out of order after his authority to present a minority report was questioned. It was decided the judge did not represent a minority, but was merely speaking as a delegate.

The convention then voted to accept the platform as presented by the resolution committee, naming the Klan.

Columbus, Aug. 26.—With John W. Davis, the Democratic standard bearer, in the city, the Democratic state convention was rapped to order in Memorial hall here at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Former Governor James E. Campbell, as temporary chairman, sounded the party keynote and he was followed by Governor Donahay with a short extemporaneous address.

John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, received a great ovation upon his arrival here this morning. He was escorted from the Union station to the Deshler hotel, where he held conferences with state leaders. He will address the Democratic convention this afternoon.

Much of the important work of the convention had been done before it convened. The new state central committee met and effected its organization by electing Robert T. Scott of Cambridge chairman and Clarence Greer of Dayton secretary.

T. F. Dye of Urbana was chosen chairman of the state executive committee to succeed W. W. Durbin. Durbin's name was not presented to the committee. Not a voice was raised against the motion of T. J. Conpor of Cincinnati that Dye be named chairman.

The defeat of Fred J. Heer for reelection as chairman of the state central committee necessitated a roll call and only five of the 21 members voted for the Columbus man.

An executive committee of 16 members was named to conduct the campaign. This committee, selected by a subcommittee consisting of W. A. Julian of Cincinnati, E. J. Lynch of Toledo and Joseph Miller of Hillsboro, has these members: Thomas F. Dye, Urbana, chairman; Mrs. Frank M. Gorman, Cincinnati, vice chairman; Miss Marie McCurry, Middletown, executive secretary; John Wood, Georgetown, treasurer; John Maher, Greenville; Thomas J. Noctor, Cincinnati; Scott Stahl, Toledo; Newt Bronson, Defiance; Michael Peer, Lorain; Frank Henry, Marietta; W. B. Gansner, Cleveland; Mary L. Gorman, Toledo; Amanda Strayer, Steubenville; Mabel Schaeffer, Dayton; Luette Peabody, Oberlin, and John E. Druggan, Columbus.

The Platform.

The Democratic state platform promises to be lengthy, for there are so many factions in the party seeking to get together for November victory that each will wish to allow the other to get its voice in the platform on "peculiar" important issues. Governor Donahay will have his, and so will Fred Heer, W. W. Durbin, "Tim" Hogan, former attorney general; Newton Baker and Burr Gansner of Cleveland, not to mention John O'Dwyer of Toledo, and so on down the line, including representatives of different blocs who visit all conventions. The resolutions committee also will thresh out the Klan issue.

Safe Cracked.

Columbus, Aug. 26.—Police discovered that burglars who "cracked the safe" in the office of Burkle & Son, insurance agents, and made their getaway with certificates valued at $2,400 and $385 in cash, also entered two other offices in the same building. Only small amounts were taken.

PROPOSED MERGER OF RAILROADS IS RATIFIED BY ERIE

Cleveland, Aug. 26.—The offer of the Van Sweringen interests of this city has been approved by the directors of the Erie Railroad company.

The Erie is the first to signify its willingness to participate in the huge railroad merger, which will result in the formation of a trunk line with almost 14,000 miles of track, traversing the eastern section of the country. Directors of the other roads involved in the merger—the Pere Marquette, Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley and the present Nickel Plate—are expected to follow the lead of the Erie in ratifying the proposal. Stockholders of the five roads then simultaneously will be asked to accept the Van Sweringen's offer for an exchange of shares. Little opposition is expected to the execution of the plan.

BOY DROWNS AS HE SUFFERS CRAMPS

Dayton, Aug. 26.—Russell Hampton, aged 12, older son of Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, 658 Williams Street, was drowned in Wolf Creek near Western and Hoover avenues yesterday afternoon. His younger brother, William, aged 8, stood on the bank of the stream crying fruitlessly for help.

The boys had been swimming in the creek all afternoon, according to relatives. The younger brother on the bank after watching his brother go down following cramps for help, summoned aid from a nearby swimming resort and the body was recovered immediately.

Police were notified but efforts to revive the boy with a pulmotor failed. The coroner has not made his report but police think that the boy became exhausted and suffered cramps.

UNIFICATION OF COURTS IS URGED

Cedar Point, O., Aug. 26.—The annual summer meeting of the Ohio State Bar association is under way here. An important question before the meeting is whether the association as an organization will support and participate actively in a movement to unify courts in the state. At the present time the judicial council of Ohio, which is headed by Chief Justice Marshall of the Ohio supreme court, is making a study of the unification plan. However, the bar association's committee on judicial administration and legal reform also has the question under investigation. There have been several plans advanced for the consolidation of all courts. One contemplates the doing away with justices of the peace; providing for uniform municipal courts, the improvement of the administration of criminal justice, raising of salaries and lengthening of tenure of judges, simplification of civil procedure, creation of a chief justice, and the creation of a rule making or legislative department.

BREAK JAIL

Greencastle, Ind., Aug. 26.—Seven men, all escaped prisoners from the Indiana state penal farm, being held here for return to that institution, broke jail by smashing the prison padlock of the main cellroom. No one saw the men leave the building. It is believed they walked out of the main door to the street. Sheriff Sears' dog was killed for fear it would give the alarm. The sheriff immediately organized a posse to pursue the men and notified the authorities of adjoining towns. All seven, according to the sheriff, are desperate characters, and a battle is expected if the posse overtakes them.

"THEY'RE ORPHANS NOW" SAYS DAUGHTER OF WOMAN NOMINATED FOR TEXAS GOVERNOR

New York, Aug. 26.—"Ma" Ferguson is going to be the boss!

Mrs. George S. Nalle, of Austin, Texas, daughter of the woman who has just achieved the most sensational political act of the generation by defeating the Ku Klux Klan and insuring her election as the first woman to be governor of any state in the union, promised that today.

Mrs. Nalle, with her husband and small son, Ernest, are visiting in New York for a few days, resting from their labors in the campaign in which they stumped the state for "Ma."

"Mama's victory means that she is going to be the governor of Texas in fact as well as in name. She was painted as a mere figurehead for my father, former Governor James E. Ferguson," Mrs. Nalle said. "She will be boss never fear."

"When daddy was governor he always talked over his problems with mama before reaching a decision and now the situation will simply be reversed. Daddy will co-operate with mama in every possible way and give her the benefit of his experience. It will be a work of love for him, because he will want her administration to go down in history as a monument to the first woman governor of any state."

"Mama has not been a super-feminist or a militant suffragette," Mrs. Nalle continued in her thumbnail sketch of a woman whose name will go down in history. "But she has always been keenly interested in politics because of dad. She was not an ardent suffragette, but since women received the vote she has always voted as she sees right. She has a mind of her own and uses it. There's nothing wishy-washy about her and she'd be like when there's cake to be made Sunday or something special for 'company.' She puts up her own preserves."

"We're pleased that she licked the Klan, but we expected it. My father was a good governor and was undermined by political trickery and the people of Texas knew it. The campaign was a vindication for him as against the Klan. And about the Klan—you know their campaign slogan was 'No. Ma For Me.' Well they're orphans now."

Names to Go on Ballot. Columbus, Aug. 26.—Under the Ohio laws, the independent candidates' names and those of their presidential electors will go on the ballot just like the old parties, if the La Follette backers file petitions bearing 1 per cent of the total vote for governor at the last general election, with the secretary of state. Such petitions are now being prepared and will be filed within the legal time, La Follette workers say.

RHEUMATIC VICTIM LACKED FAITH BUT NEUTRONE WAS CONVINCING

Suffering Long Agony and Discouraged Over Many Failures Detroit Man Would Try Anything Once.

"While working for Dodge Bros. Detroit a sudden attack of rheumatism crippled me all up. My legs, knees and feet swelled to double their size. Western doctors did not help me and I had to stop work."

"Then came East, my cousin thinking a change of climate would help. Instead, I got worse than ever; my arms becoming so useless that my wife had to feed me through a tube. Eastern doctors and remedies proved no better than those of Detroit."

"Every day my cousin urged me to try 'Neutrone Prescription 99'. It had cured him. So with little faith, I began to take this wonderful remedy. Truly, it seemed that a miracle had happened. Swellings went down, my crippled joints straightened out and in two weeks I was back to work, as well or even better than ever. Three bottles cured me, but I took a couple more to drive out any trace of rheumatic poison."

"Neutrone Prescription 99' put me back to work, and I have worked steadily ever since. It cured me and I trust this letter will persuade all sufferers to get the same help that I got. They will never regret it."

"Neutrone Prescription 99' now comes in tablet as well as liquid form whichever is preferred. Leading druggists everywhere."

THE "SECRET" IS OUT NOW

That gift of a sap bucket to Mr. Ford by President Coolidge in Vermont the other day is true because no virile press agent would ever have been equal to such an inimitable creation. And Mr. Ford's few words of thanks in accepting the sap bucket have the same earmarks of credibility. He said that it was the best gift that had come his way since Mrs. Ford had said "Yes" in the golden long ago.

In all the field of repartee and among all the clever writers of the conversational fillers that make the warp and woof of the popular novel there could be no fellow to that sap-bucket gift and the accepting rejoinder. Nobody would have thought up anything so simple. There is a ripe implausibility about it—especially in Mr. Ford's remark—that fiction would never think of inventing. And speaking of psychiatry, what a piece of alienist testimony could be made of that queer association of ideas in the mind of the world's richest auto manufacturer!

Consider. Here is a President handing a multi-millionaire a sap bucket. News writers and photographers are ranged about, ready to pick up the incident and retail it to the ends of the earth.

Mr. Ford said exactly what nobody ever would have invented. up his end of the little comedy. That something must be said out of hand. The situation requires that it shall be a breezy little something.

The best and wisest of men are confronted with situations like that every day. What to say? What to say with an offhand, unstudied ease and good humor? It may be confessed also that the best and wisest of men go down and out in confusion and torment in precisely these unconventional circumstances. Most everybody could accept a German cannon at such a time and make a pretty speech about war as a horrible thing and world peace an infinite blessing. But what to say in accepting a sap bucket?

Mr. Ford said exactly what nobody ever would have invented. He said it made him feel as glad as when his best girl said the words that had promoted her to be the Mrs. Ford of today. And it wasn't bad for the occasion and on the spur of a difficult moment at that.

But of elucidation of such a strange rule there is no end. Everybody can take up the tale and continue it without end: "The thing that couldn't happen is the thing that does."

Ever since Ford visited Washington and returned home, and announced that he positively was not a candidate for the Presidency and favored election of Mr. Coolidge, there has been stray intimations that he had "sold out"—that the President had bought him off—that he was to receive something valuable. He disclaimed. Said "no" and that he believed election of Mr. Coolidge was for the best interest of the nation. But the enemies of the President insisted that he certainly was to receive a reward for his action. Now it is out. He got a sap bucket. People who do not live in maple syrup sections of the country do not know the value. But everybody about here does. Many of our frisky young folks have been out to sugar camps on evening picnics and have seen dozens of sap buckets, not a single one likely worth more than one dollar.

COOLIDGE ASSERTS U. S. WILL NOT PUSH ALLIES FOR DEBTS

President Coolidge, featured as the man who can say "No," did say it with emphasis in answer to many important questions of international importance asked him by the score of newspapermen who had their conference with him in the summer White House today.

Not since he became President by a midnight oath taken in his father's Plymouth house a little over a year ago has Mr. Coolidge made this little town the focus of so much national even international attention as it received today. Affairs at home and abroad were discussed in the small hall over Plymouth's only store and under unusually picturesque circumstances.

For an hour before this conference the President had been perspiring in a neighboring hay field, from which he came to exchange hurriedly his blue jeans for his trim double-breasted gray sack suit, in which he quickly reassumed the role not only of President of the United States but as something of a counselor in world affairs.

The high spots of the President's intentions are these: No pressure will be laid upon France or other allied nations for an immediate collection of war debts due the United States.

No steps will be taken to call a conference on international disarmament until Europe has stabilized itself by carrying out the provisions of the Dawes reparations plan.

SHEETS AND MATTRESS "REFORM" AN ANARCHIST

Sheets and pillowcases, on a mattress spread over real bed springs, so melted the heart of an alleged anarchist awaiting deportation on Ellis Island that he gave Immigration Commissioner Curran, New York, a rug hand-woven by him during the year of his incarceration.

The anarchist—the authorities withheld his name, as his ordered deportation for alleged anarchy is on appeal—asked that the rug be kept at the station as a pattern for future rug makers to be held there.

Due to many deportations, it was the first in a year the anarchist and many of his fellows on Ellis Island had slept "between sheets."

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

With resolutions good I came
Unto this pleasant spot,
Said I unto my winsome dame:
"Out there I'll work a lot!"

"In town distractions drive me wild,
But there beside the lake,
Where skies are blue and breezes mild
Full many a rhyme I'll make."

"I'll write the afternoons away
And every quiet night
When no one comes at bridge to play
I'll sit me down to write."

But when I settle to my task
There comes a friend, and he Says temptingly: "I've called to ask
If you would golf with me?"

I am not made of bitter stuff,
I get my clubs and hat,
I'm strong, but not quite strong Enough

To spurn a plea like that.
At four o'clock my little son
Cries: "Come, it's time to swim,"
And to the beach with him I run
As I had promised him.

Next callers come an hour to stay,
They have no song to write,
No copy must they send away,
And I must be polite.

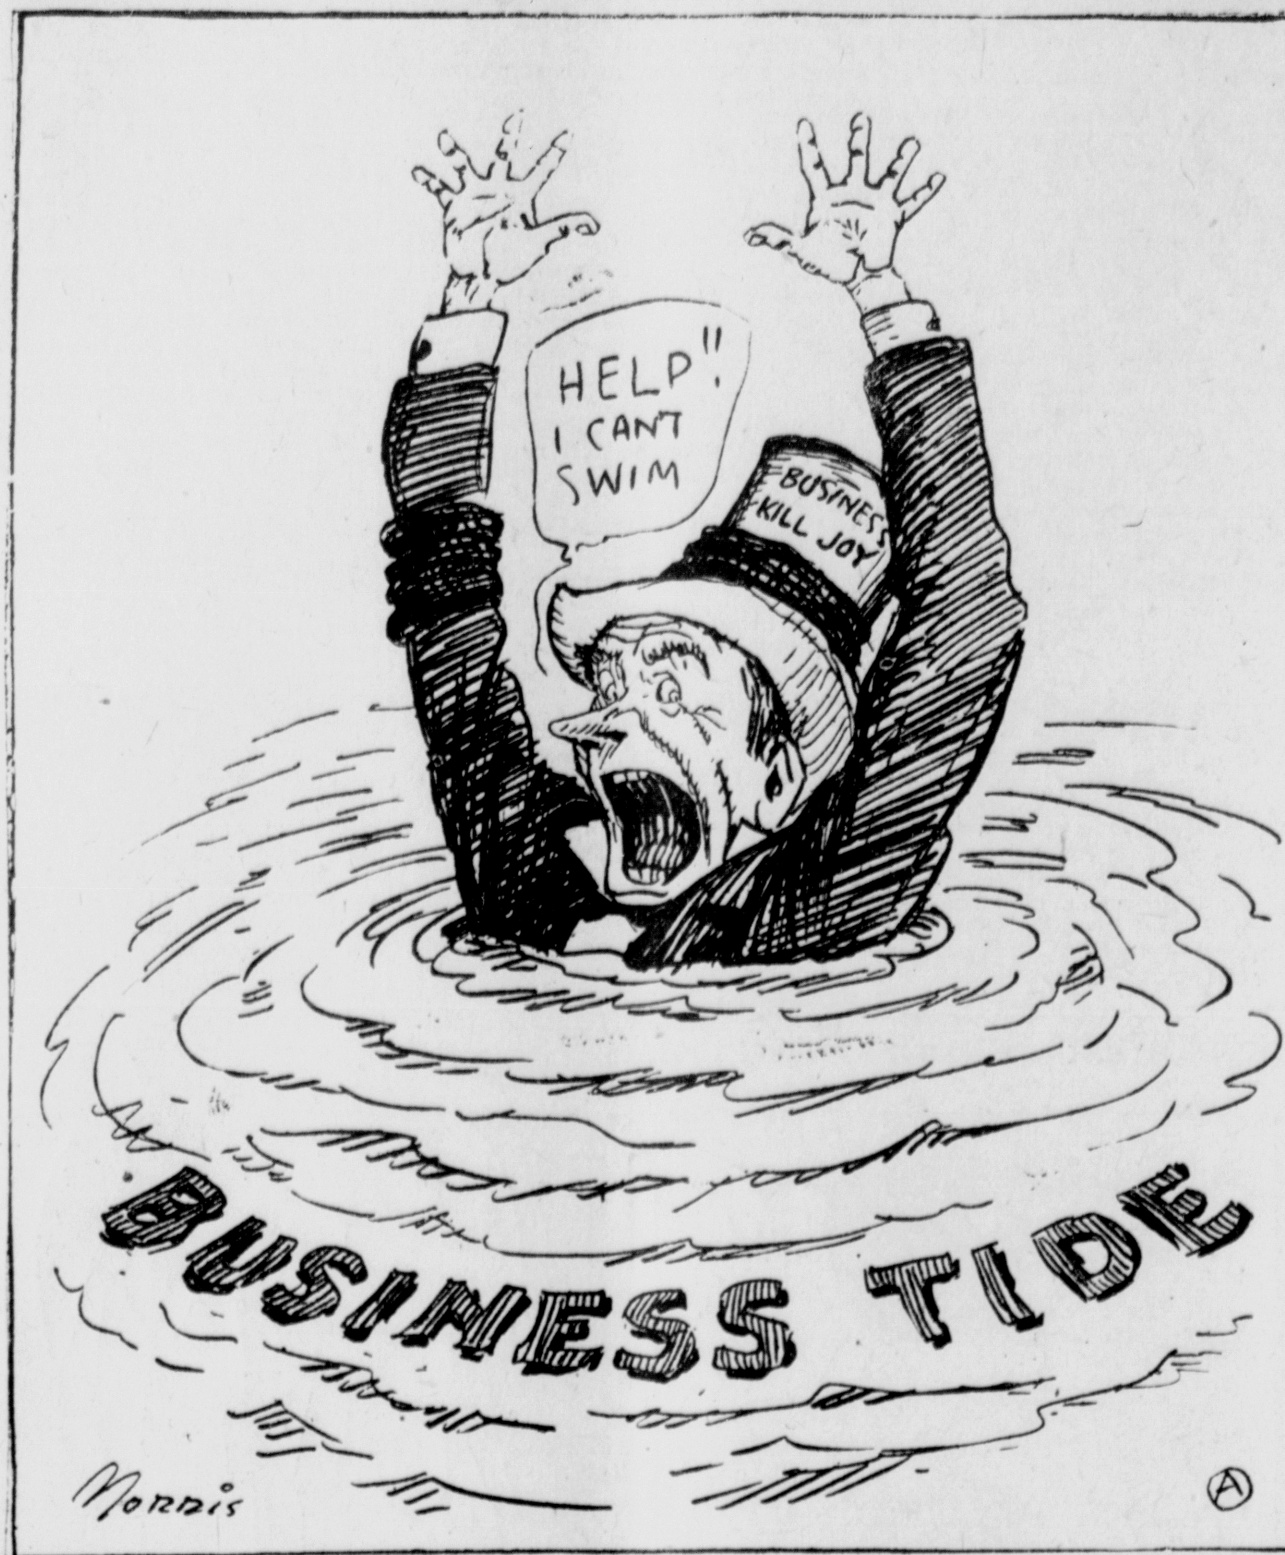

Night finds me where the day began
And thus the weeks roll by,
Surely a sorely tempted man
To indolence am I!
Each year I vow I will not shirk,
But to my tasks be true:
Up here I'll do a lot of work,
And then I never do.

THE GREATEST MEDICINE IN THE WORLD

The fit and healthy are those who use what they have, every organ, every muscle, every faculty.

One of the great insurance companies is spending a fortune telling people not to get fat. They know from figures they have carefully compiled that fat people do not live so long as the ones who are kept fit.

Fat people are not active people as a rule. They allow their bodies to keep excess baggage. Before they know it their other resources have been drawn upon to the point of exhaustion.

I met a man the other day who is 74 years of age, the head of one of the greatest institutions in the world. He gives his secretaries and helps enough exercise running his errands to keep them fit. He has never allowed himself to get out of condition. He does his daily dozens and dozens. Hours are mediums into which he puts that much more work. He says that work is the great medicine—and he is a doctor himself.

The unhappy people in this world are those who will not work, who will not perform, and who make other people unhappy by drawing upon what they have earned by the sweat of their brow and the toll of their hands.

You can work through disappointment. You can work through sorrow and failure.

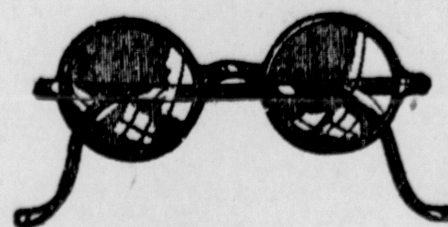

Work and time cure everything. We will never have but snatches of real happiness no matter how well we get placed or how favored we may be. But work will give us our maximum of happiness always.

But don't wait until you can get a big job with big pay. Do the simple, small job well.

Nothing is big but what growth through hard work has made it so.

EAGLE'S FESTIVAL FEATURING NAT REISS SHOW GIVEN WARM WELCOME, OPENING LAST NIGHT

The Nat Reiss Shows, playing here a week under the auspices of Xenia Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles and for the benefit of the Eagles' Athletic Fund, drew a large crowd to the opening night's entertainment at the old Reserve Park, Cincinnati Avenue, Monday night.

The appearance of the company, which is classed as a "traveling amusement park, and the high moral tone of the shows, exhibits and amusements, was proof of the promises of M. J. Donahue, advance publicity agent for the company, that the Nat Reiss Shows are clean, and free from objectionable features, gambling or amusements of a low order.

The Nat Reiss Shows made an instantaneous appeal on these grounds to the first nighters who visited the amusements Monday night, and insured that the company has lifted this type of amusement from the usual carnival class to a higher plane. Visitors found plenty of honest fun and amusement on the grounds to furnish more than one evening of entertainment and advance predictions indicate that the new public gymnasium being fathered by the Eagles, will more than benefit from the proceeds. Shows along the midway exerted an appeal for the first nighters. They were attracted to the Minstrel Show, with all colored talent, to a Wild West Show that features clever riding and shooting exhibits, to the Box of Fun, where hilarity reigns supreme, to the Motor Drome for the speed events, to the Speedway, the Ten-In-One to the Arena and "Through the Clouds," besides the regular side show, "Lucille," the "Upside Down Family" and others.

The riding devices were unusually popular, and drew patrons for ride after ride, in thrilling aerial soires or more complicated processes of shaking the passengers into a state of mirth. The time-honored Merry-Go-Round has as companions, two ferris wheels, one said to be the largest wheel with a traveling show and the other a "baby" wheel for the more timid. Two of the latest creations in riding devices are offered in the Caterpillar and Merry-Mix-Up, besides a "Whip" and other features.

The midway is a veritable blaze of incandescents, and the management announces that the parking space for automobiles will be better lighted up beginning Tuesday night. The grounds are well policed by uniformed officers. Stodghill's Band gives concerts on the grounds besides the daily concert at each afternoon and evening on the Court House square. Eagles who sponsored the shows are enthusiastic over the high quality of the outdoor amusements and the reception being given the amusements.

Tuesday night will be "Gazette carrier boy" night at the park, when all the carriers of the Gazette and their substitutes will be guests of the management. In charge of W. J. Clifford, advertising and circulation manager, more than forty boys are expected to gather at the Gazette Building at 7 o'clock Tuesday night and go to the shows in a body. They will be given free tickets to every performance on the grounds and will be taken on all the riding devices.

Girls working in the popularity contest are beginning their real drives for the diamond ring prizes with the opening of the shows. A new leader has appeared each day of the contest so far, with Miss Mary Shoemaker assuming the top position in Tuesday's announcements. The standing for Tuesday was:

Mary Shoemaker	4,830
Selma Goodman	4,610
Mary McFadden	4,280
Bertha Hyman	4,060
Mildred Mason	3,970
Mabel Milburn	3,970
Mary Sutton	3,640
Irene Hunt	3,180
Mabel McCoy	2,720
Leontine Jenks	1,380

Children of the O. S. and S. O. Home and the County Children's Home will be guests of the management Wednesday afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock and the shows will also be open then to all others who want to attend.

MRS. W. J. CHERRY IS WINNER OF GOLF TOURNEY MONDAY

The women golfers of the Xenia Country Club staged another unique form of golf tournament over the local golf course Monday morning when a "blind par tournament" was held.

After the return of the players to the club house following the tournament, the six low holes were withdrawn from the total of eighteen played by each golfer and only these ten holes counted.

Mrs. W. J. Cherry proved most adept at this game and carried away first prize. Mrs. C. A. Weaver was runner up followed by Mrs. Mary Meredith who came in third.

Wednesday, August 27, nine women golfers representing the local golf club will motor to Sidney to engage the team of that place in a return match. Sidney was defeated by the locals earlier in the season by a close score.

Next Monday, being Labor Day, the local women will not hold their regular morning golf tournament, but instead have invited the men golfers to join them in a mixed doubles tournament. Participants in this match will draw for partners by lot and the pairings in each foursome will play a nine hole, two-ball match.

The regular luncheon on Monday at the club house will be served for men as well as women members. Mrs. T. C. Long is chairman of the luncheon committee for next Monday and all reservations must be made with her before Friday night of this week. Mrs. Mary Dice was in charge of Monday's luncheon at the club following the match.

XENIA GOLFERS TO PLAY FRANKLIN MATCH WEDNESDAY

From fifteen to twenty golfers representing the Xenia Country Club will motor to Franklin Wednesday afternoon to engage the golf team of that place in a return match. Golfers from Franklin performed here last week for the first time and made an excellent impression by the steady brand of golf they displayed.

In the former inter-city match Xenia came out on the long end of a close score by shooting several low scores including a fine 72 by Jack Barlow, which broke the local course record in match play for eighteen holes.

The Xenians will likely be forced to even greater heights Wednesday as the match will be held over Franklin's home links and several of the Franklin players are said to have shot the course in par several times. Their course is full of natural and artificial hazards and for a nine hole course is hard to negotiate in par or even bogey. The fairways are long and narrow which will tax the control of golfers to some extent.

Lunch will probably be served golfers after the game at the Franklin club house.

That all the newspapers were suddenly discontinued on a certain day. Can you imagine the noise the public would make? News! News! News! The clamor would reach the skies. Imagine the business man who had no means of securing the help he needed, or the used car dealer who had no means of letting the public know he had used cars to sell. Imagine a man going about the country trying to sell half a dozen cows. A lot of trouble. Classified ads are as indispensable as your telephone. OPERATION ADVISED FRIEND SAID "DON'T DO IT!"

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First. Proved Good Advice

Chicago, Illinois.-"Just a few lines to let you know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was married going on for three years, and went to a doctor and was taking treatments twice a week for pains every month. I used to be in bed three or four days with them and the doctor would call and inject something into my arm to put me asleep so I would not feel the pains. At last she said I would have to be operated on if I wanted any children. Well, I just happened to go to see a friend with her first baby and I told her I was going to the hospital, and she said, 'Don't do it! You go and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you won't need any operation.' So my husband got me a bottle right away. Now I have two lovely children. Believe me, I recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman I know has any kind of female trouble. It has helped me and a lot of my friends."-Mrs. A. MCANDLESS, 1709 S. Morgan St., Chicago, Ill. RESERVES TO PLAY ADDISON CLUB SUNDAY

The Xenia Reserves, winners of six straight games, will try to make it lucky seven Sunday afternoon at Washington Park when they meet the last Addison A. C.'s.

The Reserves have been going like a house afire in the last few games and are out to show the way to the state crew. Hickman, a new hurler, will probably get to show what kind of tricks he can make the horsehide do against the Addison outfit. Randal will catch while the rest of the lineup will remain intact.

Little is known of the Addison bunch but that they hold a 4 to 3 victory over the Troy Hobarts, the team the Reserves beat earlier in the season. According to the dope it looks as though the teams are about evenly matched. Play will be called at 2:45 o'clock, and it is hoped that Manager Chambliss will have a competent umpire in charge of the game. Half of the time was spent last Sunday arguing with the officials.

The time was again 2:08 1/4.

Only heat winners were back for the fourth heat, which Eli Direct won in 2:

ORIGINAL HONEST MAN FOUND HERE

Diogenes, seeking an honest man with a lantern, probably lived in too early an age, according to Martin Stodghill, Cincinnati, director of the concert band of the Nat Reiss Shows, here this week.

Stodghill broke out in a cold sweat when he discovered his wallet, containing about $150, had mysteriously disappeared during the luncheon hour. He claims he found the original "honest man" when it was discovered Nick Vartas, employee of the Xenia Candy Kitchen, had found the wallet and turned it over to the manager of the confectionery.

Stodghill, who has been leading the Reiss band all season, is tickled to death to be travelling in Ohio now, after spending most of the season in Illinois and Indiana. The company is now making its first jump into Ohio, and the band leader feels like he has come home. He will direct the music makers in daily concerts on the Court House square during the rest of the week.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Luxury of Love

by VIOLET DARE

AUTHOR OF "The Half-Time Wife," "Love or Fame?" ETC.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

MARY HAYWARD, a famous beauty, arrives at the country home of CAMILLA WAITE with two men, BRUCE GILLIAN and STEWART O'BRIEN.

Camilla warns Mary that she is in love with Bruce and that there is to be no poaching on her matrimonial preserves. Camilla realizes that Bruce is much interested in Mary, and plots with O'Brien to prevent his proposing to her.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

VI—CAMILLA'S LITTLE PLAN.

BRUCE GILLIAN's eyes hardly left Mary's face during dinner that evening. Camilla chattered at him almost unceasingly, and he listened politely enough, but always his eyes were for Mary.

She was very pale, an ivory-like pallor, and her gray eyes were dark and wide with the suffering that held her even as she smiled at O'Brien's remarks.

She forced herself not to look at Bruce. It seemed to her that if she met his eyes even once, she must run to his side and tell him what Camilla had said, begging him to reassure her, to tell her that he had meant what he had said, and had not thought that she was trying to make love to him.

Camilla could not fail to note Bruce's interest. Her lips set in a thin, tight line, and she promptly changed her plans for the evening. She had to admit Mary's loveliness. There were four tall candles on the table; two of them framed the girl's face, and behind her the deep blue of the early evening sky stretched, making her doubly beautiful. They were dining on the terrace, and the air was heavy with the scent of honeysuckle and roses. A night made for love—and those two who knew their love even though they had not openly confessed must sit facing each other, bound by convention to be empty polite to the others.

Gillian sighed, clenching his hands beneath the table. Never had he seen anything like Mary Hayward, and he vowed in that moment that he would ask her that evening to marry him if he had to do it in front of Camilla, O'Brien and the entire household of servants.

"After all, I don't believe that I want to play mah jong tonight," remarked Camilla as they rose, quite characteristically, she did not consult the preferences of the others. "I think we'll go to the club and dance awhile. How about it?" And she smiled up at Bruce.

"It sounds attractive," he answered, but his heart leaped. He could dance with Mary, could talk with her in semi-privacy at least, and perhaps steal her away from the crowd for a few moments. Camilla was making plans of her own, however: as Mary went upstairs to get their wraps she slipped her arm through Gillian's.

"I'm going to ask you to do something for me, something that will give me a real thrill," she told him, confidently. "I love to shock the crowd here; they're all old friends of mine, and they've begun to take me too much for granted. So let's just dance with each other. I think it would be loads of fun, and all Westchester and Long Island will be wondering about it by tomorrow evening."

Gillian had a trick of half-closing his eyes and looking down at a woman lazily. He did it now, and Camilla would have thrown her heart at his feet in response to that quizzical glance.

"You can't make me believe that you'd risk being made conspicuous for the sake of making a poor stranger like me happy," he told her in reply. "You've been charming to me, but I can't ask that."

"Oh, but I—don't you see, I'd enjoy it, just for a lark, of course," she insisted.

"It would hardly be polite to Miss Hayward," he retorted. "Surely—"

"Oh, Mary won't care," Camilla answered idly. "She'll be dancing with Stewed most of the time, anyway; he's crazy about her. Mary," as the girl joined them, "you take Mr. O'Brien over to the club in the big car, won't you? Bruce and I are going in the roadster."

For a single instant then Mary looked up at Bruce Gillian, wondering if the plan was of his making.

VIOLET DARE

Mary stepped out on the balcony.

His eyes denied it, and she turned away, comforted. But the evening almost broke her heart. Only when Bruce danced with her, the second dance, was she happy. New as was her love for him, it seemed to her that it was as old as time; his arm seemed to belong around her waist. Yet he did not dance with her again, but always with Camilla.

It was late when they got home; later still when Camilla brought her confidences to an end and went to her own room. Mary stood by the window for a moment, looking out into the night, then stepped out into the balcony. In her black negligee she seemed a part of it. The air was heavy with fragrance, and she could hear the waves on the beach. She longed to get away from the house, into a silence where she could feel that she was alone with the great new force that had caught her in its grasp. Only a moment she hesitated; then she stole down through the house and out into the garden.

It was quiet there, among the flowers, and she could forget Camilla and her double-edged remarks, forget O'Brien and his insinuations, and remember the man who had seemed to caress her when he had said, "I wish for you." So clearly did his voice sound in her ears that she thought she must still be imagining it when she heard him speak, just behind her.

"Out for a nightcap?" he asked. She stood for a moment, almost dizzy with emotion. It seemed hardly possible that he was standing there beside her.

Tomorrow—Love in a Garden.
